synoptic assessment involves the assessment of candidates ability to draw on their understanding of the connections between different aspects of the subject represented in the specification and demonstrate their ability to think like a geographer, volcanic events vary in size frequency and type around the world but it can be argued that these physical factors cause the greatest impact as they are uncontrollable and create the initial impact which we can only manage and are therefore what causes the impact, gcse geography b linear for teaching from september 2012 version 1
